

ASSIGNEE FANCHER ENJOINED.

Latest Developments in the Case of Burkhalter & Co.

The Firm's Accounts Copied by Irving Bank People at Night.

The startling and sensational features of C. Burkhalter & Co.'s failure, which were outlined exclusively in The Evening World more than a week ago, have been brought fully into light through the order of discovery granted last evening by Judge Bookstaver, of the Court of Common Pleas, application for which was made by Dill, Chandler & Seymour in behalf of Octavo Bland, treasurer of the Franco-American Food company, and it directs that all the persons who were engaged in the midnight raid upon Burkhalter & Co.'s books and assets the night before the failure, shall produce the records, accounts, or whatever they obtained on that occasion, before Benjamin W. Franklin, of 3 Wall street, who is appointed referee in the case.

The affidavit upon which this order is granted is made by Henry B. Broadhead, a buyer for C. Burkhalter & Co. He relates with great detail all that occurred on the day and night preceding the failure of his employers.

As told in THE EVENING WORLD, the first suspicious circumstance preceding the failure was the removal from the store of Burkhalter & Co., on Hudson street, of eighteen truckloads of goods, valued at $8,000, marked "C. F. Matting." Mr. Broadhead says that he knew at the time that the goods were being removed from the Irving National Bank and was not a customer of the firm of Burkhalter & Co.

The fine work, however, was left for the following night, Oct. 19. About 5 o'clock that evening, says Mr. Broadhead, a telephone message came from Stern & Lushmore, of the Irving Bank's lawyers, to Head Bookkeeper Leeds, of Burkhalter & Co., telling him to keep all the men on duty as they would be needed that night for special work.

The following clerks were retained on duty: Mr. Leeds, his son, L. R. Leeds, Phil Connor, Louis Furburg, Fred Grimm, George Conroy and Mr. Broadhead himself. Some of them remained until 9 or 10 P. M., but others did not get away till 3 A. M. or later.

It was about 4:30 P. M. when Cashier Louper, of the Irving National Bank, came into the store, followed soon after by John Burkhalter, Simon Stein, Mr. Rudinow, J. J. Parker, and Charles H. Fancher, President of the Irving National Bank and now assignee of the firm. From that time on Mr. Fancher and Mr. Stein took possession of the place, the deponent says, and all the clerks were set to making out accounts as rapidly as possible. The accounts, as fast as they were made out, were stamped and turned over to Mr. Fancher. Mr. Broadhead understood that the accounts were being assigned to the Irving National Bank.

It was 3 A. M. before all the accounts were made out and signed by John Burkhalter. The latter then announced that he had signed $20,000 of these accounts and they were turned over to Cashier Louper, of the Irving Bank.

Another interesting affidavit is made by Louis H. Furburg, head of the bill department of C. Burkhalter & Co. and one of those who remained in the store on the night of Oct. 19. All the bills passed through his hands, and he avers that when they had made out about $60,000 worth of bills, in accordance with the instructions of Charles Burkhalter, who had sent a list to the office, Mr. Fancher was not satisfied and insisted upon taking $35,000 more, keeping the clerks there several hours longer to write them up in his order appointing the reference J. J. E. Bookstaver, says that assignee Fancher has not yet filed his bond, and that there is reason to believe that the assigners have attempted to evade the law by the assignment of a large part of their assets, after the assignment was drawn, and that such disposition was made at the request of Fancher.

The persons who are summoned to appear

LUTHER'S BIRTHDAY.

Preparations for Extensive Celebration Next Thursday.

The Lutherans of New York and Brooklyn are preparing to celebrate the anniversary of Martin Luther's birthday, Nov. 10. The Central Association of Lutheran Young People's Societies of the two cities will take charge of the festivities, and for that purpose have arranged for the use of Association Hall at Twenty-third street and Fourth avenue.

The principal feature of the celebration will be the speeches by well-known clergymen and laymen. Rev. Dr. J. R. Remond, pastor of St. James's Church, Seventy-second street and Madison avenue, will make the historical address on the life and works of Martin Luther, and Rev. Dr. J. J. Hebebrand, of Brooklyn, will speak about "Lutheran Young People."

A Lutheran clergyman told an Evening World reporter last night that, while it was not customary among the church people to celebrate Luther's birthday except on centenary occasions, the dedication services Oct. 31 last of the famous Wittenberg church, to the door of which Luther nailed his celebrated ninety-fifth thesis, suggested the propriety of celebrating this year.

BOSSSES WILL NOT ARBITRATE.

They Believe that the Wiremen's Strike Is Slowly Ending.

Everything was quiet around Clarendon Hall this morning, and only a few strikers were there. There was no meeting and none of the Executive Committee nor Walk-delegates were on hand. No strikes have been ordered, and it is believed by the bosses that the strike is slowly dying.

The contractors report that there are no strikes on any of the buildings where they have work going on. The electrical contractors refused to attend the Walking delegate of the Wiremen's Union to their meeting yesterday, and sent him a message stating that they had nothing to confer about as they will stick to their decision to employ either union or non-union men without discrimination.

LONDON STAGE SUCCESSSES.

"In Town" and "The Guardsman" the Two Most Notable.

Marie Halton to Sing in a New Opera at the Shaftesbury.

(By Associated Press.) LONDON, Nov. 5.—The collapse of Signor Lago's opera season at the new Olympic Theatre has been received with general regret, as Signor Lago deserved well of the public. He cut down the prices of admission to operate performances and showed in former seasons that it was quite possible to produce opera adequately rendered and staged at moderate prices. In addition he introduced to London many first-class singers, including the Havogli sisters.

The greatest theatrical successes of present are at the Prince of Wales's and the Court theatres. At the former "In Town," by Adrian Ross and George Leader, with Arthur Roberts and Miss Florence St. John in the cast, is doing a good business, while the Court Theatre is doing equally as well with "The Guardsman."

"The Private Secretary" has been withdrawn from the stage of the Comedy Theatre to make room for a revival of Sydney Grundy's "Arabian Nights." The latter will soon be followed by Brookfield's adaptation of Sardou's "Divorcee," with the scene transferred to the Savoy Hotel in London. Mr. Charles Hawtrey and Miss Lottie Venne will have the part of the "Divorcee."

It is said that in the course of the season Mr. Tree intends to produce Ibsen's drama, "An Enemy of the People," and will appear himself in the character of Dr. Stockmann.

Miss Marie Halton, an American actress whose little time ago appeared at the Lyric in the title role of "La Tigra," has, in conjunction with Mr. Harry Hookhouse, secured a year's lease, to begin in January next, of the Shaftesbury, with the option, if desired, of renewing for another twelve months. They will produce a new comic opera by Mr. H. "Kmm," with music by Mr. Jakobowski. Under the pseudonym of Mr. "Kmm" the name of the author is but thinly veiled. It is Mr. Monkhouse himself who furnishes the libretto of the work. It was the intention of Mr. Monkhouse to play the chief part in this work, but as he is under engagement to Mr. Hoagland Sedger it is not known whether he can do so or not.

Last night he was seized with a terrible spasm of fear and ran shrieking around his room, frightening his wife and filling the children with an unexplainable terror.

Policemen Goodwin and Kelly, of Madison street station, were called in and took the insane man to Governor's Hospital.

All the while he prayed that some one would protect him from the evil thing which was continually trying to kill him. The poor, unfortunate fellow will be removed to Bellevue Hospital for treatment.

$20,000 IN FLOWERS.

Display on Six Tables To-Day at the Chrysanthemum Show.

This is decoration day at the great chrysanthemum show in Madison square garden. Six tables covered with flowers artistically arranged will be exhibited, and the collective value of these flowers alone is estimated at $20,000.

A new prize silver cup, offered by Mrs. J. P. Kernochan, will also be awarded to-day for the best twenty-five red roses.

Yesterday premiums for giant chrysanthemums were granted in six classes from 1 to 125 to P. S. Waby, Fletcher & Mandala, John Keane, E. G. Hill & Co., T. D. Underhill, John May, W. L. Kewitt, Thomas H. Spaulding, M. B. Spaulding, William Flumb, Ballouville Brothers, William Brown, Thomas H. Brown. The judges recommended a certificate of merit to Richard Brett, of Yonkers, for an exhibit of seedlings which were exhibited, but not for competition.

HE WAS CRAZED BY FRIGHT.

Moses Levy, Suddenly Awakened, Saw a Form in White.

To His Frenzied Imagination It Was a Ghost.

Moses Levy, a furrier, twenty-six years of age, who was sent to Gouverneur Hospital last night violently insane, was crazed, it was learned to-day, by fright.

Levy has a wife and children, with whom he lived on the second floor of the rear tenement at 30 Henry street. The synagogue Shalom Zedek, stands next door to the house.

About two months ago Levy was awakened somewhere near midnight by an unusual disturbance. His bedroom window faces some of the windows of the synagogue, so that while he lay in bed he could see them.

On this particular night, when Levy was startled from his slumber, his eyes fell upon one of the windows of the church and instantly the blood seemed to congeal in his veins and he became as cold as ice.

There in the synagogue window, the bottom of which was raised, he saw an awful white figure, seemingly beckoning toward him. To his started vision the specter-like form was ominous.

Only for an instant was he an apparently inanimate thing. The trance was removed and he sprang from his bed with a wild shriek, which sent terror into the heart of his wife and little ones and half of the tenants in the house.

For a long while he could not be calmed down, he had received such a fright. He was assured by friends that what he had seen was no more than the janitor of the synagogue closing the shutters of one of the windows, which he had by error neglected to shut after the service of the night and which he had arisen in the night clothed in his night shirt, to close.

To Levy this experience has proved well nigh fatal to his reason. Since the terrible night he has been afflicted with insomnia. The only sleep which he could seem to obtain was filled with visions of the dreadful specter that he saw on that eventful night.

Morning noon and at bedtime he was continually haunted by the specter which occupied his troubled brain. At the workshop he was disturbed and could not attend to his duty. There seemed to be no rest for him; no release from the torment.

Last night he was seized with a terrible spasm of fear and ran shrieking around his room, frightening his wife and filling the children with an unexplainable terror.

Policemen Goodwin and Kelly, of Madison street station, were called in and took the insane man to Governor's Hospital.

All the while he prayed that some one would protect him from the evil thing which was continually trying to kill him. The poor, unfortunate fellow will be removed to Bellevue Hospital for treatment.

ROUNDSMAN DAILEY'S CASE.

The Prosecution Apparently Forging a Complete Chain.

Money for the Unfortunate Hannan Still Coming In.

In the close confinement of a Tombs cell Roundsmen Matthew F. Dailey will deliberate over Sunday on his trial on the charge of criminally assaulting sixteen-year-old Mamie Hannan, which was last night adjourned until 11 o'clock Monday morning.

MAMIE HANNAN.

When Recorder Smyth resumes the trial it will be in Part III. of the General Sessions, where he is assigned during the term beginning next week.

It is not probable that Dailey's deliberations will be at all satisfactory, to him, at least, for Assistant District-Attorneys Weeks and Sims are forging a chain of evidence about him that each day grows stronger and more complete and bids fair to lack no connecting link.

Dailey's attorneys, Messrs. Friend and House, seem to have recognized this, too, and for the last few days have apparently disregarded their avowed defense of an alibi in their strenuous efforts to break down the testimony of the prosecution's witnesses and impeach their character and integrity.

In only two instances have these attempts been even partially successful, and then only in the matter of character.

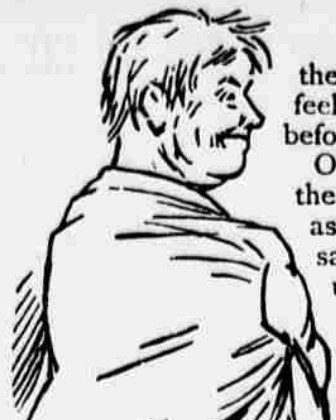

The attacks on the character of the complainant, Mamie Hannan, her mother, Mrs. Annie Hannan and Thomas Kelly, resulted in signal failures, while no attempt of such a nature was made upon Police Justice Taltor, Capt. Eakin's, Mamie's little cousin, Johnny Monks, or Undertaker and Commissioner of Health, Hugh A. Taggart.

The few damning admissions of Lizzie Lawlor regarding her own private life as well as the similar confessions of Theodore, alias "Dory" Ware, did not in the least destroy the impression, if not conviction, in the minds of those who heard them, that both spoke the truth so far as Mamie's charges were concerned and in regard to Dailey's alleged attempt to bribe Lizzie Lawlor to sign an affidavit exonerating him.

Witness Taggart swore to the contents of this affidavit, he said, purported to be a deposition on Lizzie Lawlor's part that she was not in Dailey's saloon on March 20 or other time that she did not know Dailey and had never seen him in her life, and that Mamie Hannan's charges against him were untrue.

Police Capt. Eakin swore to Dailey's denial that he knew Mamie or Mrs. Hannan, and that he was out of his district when he arrested the mother on May 23. Little Johnny Monks swore to the latter event and to Dailey's calling his aunt a bad name.

against Mamie's character was sworn to by Thomas Kelly, who testified that he never knew Mamie Hannan except by sight. The people, notwithstanding the strong case already made out against Dailey, say they have still more conclusive evidence which they will produce Monday.

Additional subscriptions for the relief of Mrs. Hannan and Mamie were received by The Evening World this morning. The fund now stands as follows:

CRUSADE AGAINST GAMBLING.

Reformed Gambler Quinn Will Direct It from a Palace-Car.

A new reformer has come to town. He is John Philip Quinn, a "reformed gambler," and he came in yesterday over the Pennsylvania Railroad in the palace-car Roanoke, from which he will direct "a crusade against gambling." Incidentally it is stated that the reformer's palace-car cost $20,000 and that the sum of $6,000 is still due on it.

The crusader's palace-car will be dedicated Nov. 10, it is announced, at the Grand Central Station, and, according to Quinn, Dr. Parkhurst, Dr. Maynard and others will assist at the ceremonies.

Quinn says he became a confirmed gambler at an early age, but in 1888 was convicted of complicity in swindling and was sentenced to serve three years in prison. He was pardoned, however, after serving three months, and it was during his stay in prison that his reformation took place.

Quinn says that gamblers grow callous to human suffering, and that they are devoted by intense selfishness.

Quinn proposes to lecture several times a day, illustrating the tricks of gamblers with a complete gamblers' outfit which he has in his car.

BY A DECOY LETTER.

Post-Office Inspectors Charge a Man with Fraud.

Post-Office Inspectors Morris and Jacobs think they have found an old crook in the person of Henry Alonzo Forrester Lapaugh alias "George Barnes," whom they arrested yesterday by means of a decoy letter in the Post-office.

Lapaugh represented himself, it is alleged, to the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad officials as the manager of a New York paper for the purpose of getting money from them. The proprietor of the paper declared the man to be an impostor and a decoy letter was sent.

When arrested several cards were found on him showing that he was connected with different enterprises. He was held in $1,500 bail on the charge of using the mails for fraudulent purposes.

After Bathing

the first time with Pearl-line, you feel as if you never had been clean before. Possibly you haven't. Only baths like the Turkish or the Russian can make you as clean as Pearl-line does. There's the same feeling of lightness and luxury after it, too.

Bathing with Pearl-line costs almost nothing. It's like everything else—you would long for it, if it were expensive, but you're apt to overlook it when it's cheap. Directions on every package.

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearl-line." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 334 JAMES PYLE.

SHE LOST HER DOCTOR.

SHE LOST HER DOCTOR.

That Is Why Marian Booth, the Actress, Is Sad.

Since Doctor disappeared there has been gloom and sadness in the home of Miss Marian Booth, the well-known actress. Doctor is a small black-and-tan of remarkable sagacity and intelligence, and for fourteen years he has been the pride and joy of his mistress.

So greatly was she attached to him that when he was lost Sept. 5 last she was almost broken hearted. All efforts to find him have since proved ineffectual, and now Miss Booth is in despair lest she shall never see him again.

Doctor's age had begun to tell on him, and he had become partially blind, while gray hairs had made their appearance about his nose. He was not of the "toy" variety, but was a solidly built little fellow, and a casual observer would not take him to be more than five years old.

He became separated from his mistress while out for a walk near Bryant Park in Fort-second street, and probably was unable to find her again on account of his blindness. He was afterwards seen by some new boys who tried to capture him, but he ran away up sixth avenue and has not been seen or heard of since.

Doctor could perform any number of tricks, and could even say his prayers and sing "Sweet By and By." Besides this, he has had a career on the stage of which any dog might be proud. When he was lost he had on a thin leather collar with his name on it.

Miss Booth offers a reward of $20 for his return, and it will be paid to anyone who leaves him at the office of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, at 10 East Twenty-second street.

THE SUNDAY WORLD,

To be published To-Morrow, will be a Newspaper which no citizen can afford to miss. Among the hundreds of interesting features prepared for this edition you will find the following:

TWO INTERESTING STORES: "THE REFORMED MAN," by Jerome K. Jerome. "THE AFFAIR OF BLEAKIRK-ON-SANDS," by T. Quiller Couch.

THE PHILADELPHIA ZOO. The animal philosopher of The Sunday World has been to Philadelphia to see the animals. The result of his observations is given in an interesting article, profusely illustrated.

OUR SOCIAL SATIRISTS. Messrs. Taylor, Gibson and McVicker, who have successfully made our Four Hundred and others the source of much innocent enjoyment are themselves given to the public in the forthcoming issue of The Sunday World. Mr. William Walsh has written some interesting facts about these gentlemen, and it is given in connection with some copies of their best work.

OUR NEXT MAYOR. The Art Supplement to this edition will be a very excellent portrait of Mr. Thomas Gilroy, drawn by one of our best artists.

BILL NYE. This genial philosopher has been doing some hard thinking during the past week on the subject of New York flats and tenants. Read what he says about them.

Literature, Music, Sports and all the other departments of The Sunday World will be even more attractive than usual. There will be stories of New York life, a complete foreign correspondence, and the absorbing topic of politics will be exhaustively treated.
